SHARP FLURRY IN MONEY MARKET

Rate for Call Loans Advanced and Wide Margins Demanded.

PRICES OF STOCKS SAGGED.

Covering by Shorts Caused Itally Late in Day, but Prices Yielded Again in Closing Dealings - Bonds Were Dull and Irregular.

(By Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—To-day's developments in the money market served fully to justify the precautionary attitude assumed by influential interests towards the especulation during the present week. Had the borrowing with which to head stocks on margins proceeded this week with the neadlong eagerness that was shown last week the effect of today's flurry in call loans inevitably would have been much aggravated.

In such case the resources of the money market would have been much depleted, and in the second place the contracts would have brought out much more burdensome offerings of stock for sale. As it was, speculative holders of stocks seemed to be well fortified with time loans. Cash margins of 30 per cent, were demanded on a large scale. The hardships of borrowers were increased by the additional strictness of lenders with regard to collateral, the rate being 1 per cent, more for loans where there were any mixture of industrial securities than where they were all railroads.

Considerable attention was attracted to reports of greatly increased demand for short time loans. It was reported that thirty-day loans easily commanded 5 per cent, while those for longer periods could be had as low as 4 per cent. There is a feeling of uneasiness regarding the immediate future of the money market. It was claimed that the high rate for call loans was due simply to the temporary tying up of money incident to the monthly settlement, and that there would be a quick release next week, or as soon as dividend and interest disbursements becam to find their way back into the money market.

The feature of the preliminary estimates of the week's cash changes is the reversal shown in the current of the money market.

The feature of the preliminary estimates of the week's cash changes is the reserves Although there has been liquidation in the stock market, the borrowing hysterial stock market, the borrowing hysterial stock market, the borrowing hysterial stock market, and item to-merow, with the effect of increasin

Is Wheat Cheap?

Short of Normal.

Some exports say 150 million bushels short, but we will be conservative and say 100 millions. The Russian crop is always hard to find out about, but the weather was very unseasonable over their spring wheat section, and a shortage of 50 million bushels would be a conservative estimate. India will have no wheat to export while Argentina is an unknown quantity until January. We have therefore a shortage of 300 millions in a 2100 million crop—1-7 or over 14 per cent. Then why should wheat not average 14 per cent, higher than last year, or from 7 to 10 cents a bushel above present prices? Get our free book.

COTTON MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—COTTON—There was an opening for the cotton market to-day at a decline of 2 to 4 points. Calles were not satisfactory, and the fact that frost was still holding off also increased the selling. The decline was extended to 9 to 13 points, after which there was a narrow and very tame market, local deals having been already pretty well evened up m anticipation of to-morrow's brief sossion (one hour).

The market was finally quiet at a net decline of 5 to 13 points. Taking the session as a whole, it represented the smallest market of recent times. A generally weak teeling prevailed, the favorable character of the weather accounts more than offsetting indications of smaller receipts. The cotton belt remains practically without frost, recent indications of a cold wave having been indications of a cold wave having been indications of a cold wave having been in the remote Northwest the temperature shows a rising fendency.

There was a decided absence of speculative interest, while reports from the southern spot markets showed easier conditions and cotton showed nothing new.
